Unit 5, Lesson: Phrasal verbs 2
Srednja škola Antuna Branka Šimića Grude

What are phrasal verbs?

- As the name suggests, they are phrases that indicate actions.
- They are generally used in spoken English and informal texts.
- Phrasal verbs consist of a verb and a particle (a preposition, or/and an adverb), e.g. get up, look forward to.
- When added to the verb, the preposition or/and adverb may change the meaning of the verb completely, e.g. look up to = have a great deal of respect for a person, while, on the other side, some phrasal verbs have a literal meaning and they can be easily understood, e.g. She opened the door and looked outside.

- They can be transitive (followed by an object), or intransitive (not followed by an object).

According to all this, there are four main types of phrasal verbs:

1 verb + particle (no object)

2 verb + object + particle (separable)

3 verb + object + particle (not separable)

4 verb + two particles + direct object

Task 1

Complete Train Your Brain with phrasal verbs from the previous lesson (ex. 3)

8 I can't do it without. _____

Note!

Some phrasal verbs are followed by -ing
(e.g. end up _____) or that (turn out _____).

When you learn a phrasal verb, always learn whether there's an object and where it goes.

e.g.

I ended up falling behind with my schoolwork, too.

It had to be someone, and it turned out that it was me.

Speaker A

I've always loved shopping, and for a long time I didn't know I had a problem. It used to make me feel good about myself, you know, trying things on, splashing out, putting together outfits and imagining myself wearing them to the theatre or the opera or whatever. It sounds silly now, but it was very real at the time. But of course I soon started running out of money, but by this stage I couldn't stop. I had to keep on shopping. I borrowed money from friends to buy clothes ... and then couldn't pay them back. I think that's actually the worst part of it, letting down people who you care about. Eventually, it was my boss that got me to wake up to reality. She'd found out that I'd been shopping instead of working, and she told me either I had to sort out my problem or I'd lose my job. That really scared me, because I'd run up huge debts on my credit cards, so I absolutely couldn't afford to do without my income from my job. So do you know what I did? I cut up my credit cards and threw them away. And basically, that's how I gave up my shopping addiction. It was actually much easier than I'd expected.

Task 4

Complete the sentences with the correct forms of the phrasal verbs from task 3, then answer the questions.

Note! You will use only six of them!

- | | | | | |
|--------------|----------------|--------------|----------|--------------|
